

Hi Jinny,

I am absolutely blown away by the changes you have made in the website! Great Job! There are a few nitpicky things that I would like you to change as well as some larger idea that I want you to try to make the website have more of a unique feel.

- The yellow used for the titles is a little painful to look at so make the Ratatouille title a dark purple that matches the home page image and have the text in the navigator bar white.
- I would like a more theatrical font for the title of the play such as Berkshire Swash from Google Fonts.
- Add a copyright to the bottom of every page. I think it would look nice to be in the center. All it has to say is 2020 Ratatouille LLC. All Rights Reserved.

Privacy Policy

(You could also put a Broadway logo about it to look more official)

- Your homepage breaks when the website is looked at on a format that isn't a computer such as Ipad or Iphone, so please fix that issue.
- I like the simplicity of the plot page; however, I think a pop of color would be nice, so try having the middle block of text have a background color and the sides remain white (if this does not look good when you attempt it, feel free to revert back to this original format). It still feels slightly bland but it's moving in a great direction! (navigation bar and title break on this page)
- I love the format of the cast/characters page, but I really want you to have the characters from the film appear when you hover over the actor/actress. Also due to how prevalent the white is on these pages; can you keep up the motif of rats by places one anywhere on every page, except for the soundtrack page. I really do like the touch of the yellow border!!
- For every page, I would still have a heading somewhere on the page, so it is clear which page someone has clicked.
- For the soundtrack page, the text is still quite hard to read. I believe maybe an orange would work. You might also have to change the formatting of the songs in order to not have them conflict too much with the background. This page really breaks when viewed in a non-computer format.
- I really like the photos page, but I would prefer a permanent border to give more color to the page.
- I preferred what you had in your original mockup for how the Location/Date. In order for it to have a more complete look, please fill in times instead of TBA.

Thanks so much,

Feel free to reach out to me if you have any questions.
